

Society Hill - Original

Philadelphia, PA, United States
Spring City Electrical

Located in historic Society Hill, one of the oldest neighborhoods in Philadelphia, the area's lighting reflects the city's deep connection to the origins of street illumination in America.

Spring City Electrical incorporated elements of the legacy of Benjamin Franklin—who helped introduce street lighting to the United States—into the elegant light standards seen throughout Society Hill. Inspired by early lighting designs, these fixtures blend historic character with modern lighting technology to illuminate Philadelphia's storied streets.
